

MoMA

The MoMA Department of Agriculture and Journalism announces:
Dutch Elm Disease in the Painting and Sculpture Collection

MoMA is appalled to announce that many of its major works have been afflicted with the blight Ophiostoma novo-ulmi, the North American strain of Dutch Elm Disease

In order to raise general awareness of this exigent state of affairs, many replicas of the original, now devastated artworks, are now on display at the Passerby location. Please come by.

Uri Aran
Ara Dymond
Corin Hewitt
Peter Johansen
Justin Matherly
S. Millthrope
Yukio Mishima and translators and Vintage Books
Carter Mull
Dominic Nurre
The Onion
Theo A. Rosenblum
Brina Thurston
Jesse Willenbring
Michael Zahn

436 West 15th St. (bet. 9th and 10th Ave.) Hours: Wednesday thru Saturday 1-7. Opening reception, Wednesday December 12th 6-8. Closed for the holidays from December 23rd thru January 1st, reopening Jan. 2nd. For further information please see www.newyorkisdead.biz